

The judiciary

Appellate Division

New judge of appeal

DOUGLAS Graham Scott SC has been appointed as judge of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of South Africa with effect from 1 January 1996. Judge Scott was born in Simonstown on 19 January 1941 and matriculated at Wynberg Boys' High School in 1958. In 1959 he took up a position as clerical assistant at the magistrate's court, Cape Town. After obtaining the degrees of BA (1962) and LLB (1964) at the University of Cape Town he joined the Department of Justice as a prosecutor in Belville and Pretoria. He served articles with Findlay and Tait from 1967 to 1968 and was admitted as an attorney at the end of 1968. He commenced practice at the Cape Bar in August 1969 and was granted silk in 1986. After having served several terms as an acting judge he was appointed to the Cape Bench on 8 June 1989. He is married to Gillian Scholtz and they have one daughter.

Judge Scott

Natal Provincial Division

New judges

SELWYN Moorcroft Miller SC has been appointed as a judge of the Transkei Division of the Supreme Court of South Africa from 1 January 1996. He was born in Johannesburg on 24 October 1944 and matriculated at St Stithians College. He obtained the BA and LLB degrees at the University of the Witwatersrand and served articles of clerkship with Bowen, Sessel and Goudvis from 1966 to 1970. He was employed by a property development company as a legal advisor from 1970 to 1971. In 1971 he joined the Department of Justice in Durban and Pietermaritzburg and held the ranks of legal assistant, magistrate, state advocate and senior state advocate before joining the Natal Bar in Durban where he practised from 1975 to 1978.

Judge Miller was appointed as a senior lecturer in law at the University of Transkei in 1978 and was eventually promoted to full professor. During his employment he held the positions of dean of the faculty of law and special assistant to the principal and vice-principal. While at the university he was a member of the Transkei Society of Advocates and practised on a part-time basis until 1991 when he joined the Transkei Bar at Umtata. He was chairman of the Transkei

Judge Miller

Society of Advocates from 1993 to 1994 and obtained the status of senior counsel in 1994. He acted as a judge of the supreme court of Transkei from 1 October 1994.

He is the president of the Umtata Bowling Club, president of the Transkei Bowling Association and a member and vice-president of the Umtata Rotary Club. He is married with three sons. ▶

CHRIS Nicholson SC has been appointed to the Natal Provincial Division of the Supreme Court of South Africa on 1 January 1996. He was born in Richmond, Natal, on 5 February 1945. He went to school at Cordwalles Preparatory School and Michaelhouse where he matriculated in 1963. At Michaelhouse he was a school prefect and captain of the first cricket and tennis teams and vice-captain of the first rugby team. He subsequently obtained the degrees of BA and LLB at the University of Natal. He represented the university's first cricket team and South African universities' cricket team on a tour of England in 1967. After serving as a clerk for one year in 1969 to Mr Justice R Hill in Pretoria, he was admitted as an advocate in Windhoek, South West Africa, where he practised until December 1971. One of the reasons for going to SWA was to help with voluntary work in the Anglican Church. He played cricket for SWA and proposed that non-racial sport be introduced in that country. This became so controversial that his practice suffered.

He commenced practice in Durban in January 1971. He helped to found the first non-racial cricket club, Aurora, in Pietermaritzburg which was threatened with prosecution by the government. At that stage there was some emphasis in his practice on human rights – he defended Harry Gwala in a marathon trial in the mid-seventies and was involved in a number of political trials. He subsequently started the Durban branch of the Legal Resources Centre in 1982 and was appointed as its first director. Prior to and during his work with the Legal Resources Centre, he undertook litigation and was involved in a large number of reported cases – broadly of a human rights nature. He also became active in labour law.

Judge Nicholson is the author of a number of books, compilations, and articles. He is also on the editorial board of the South African Journal for Human Rights.

While on sabbatical during the Hilary term at Linacre College, Oxford, in 1987, he became fascinated by the use of computers on the law. Since then he has kept abreast of developments, especially the use of foreign data bases. He believes that the judiciary should make more use of computer technology to gain access to foreign law via the Internet and other international data bases. Judge Nicholson is married to Jillian Frances Almond and they have two daughters.

Judge Nicholson

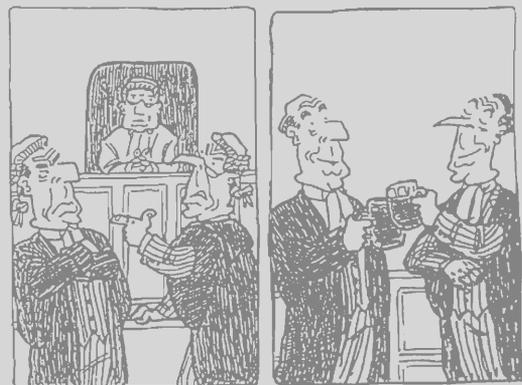

Cape Provincial Division

New judge

Judge Louw

WILLEM Johannes Louw SC has been appointed as a judge of the Cape Provincial Division from 1 January 1996. He was born in Steynsburg, North Eastern Cape on 8 September 1943. He matriculated at the Worcester Boys High School in 1961 and subsequently did his military service in the Army Gimnasium. After obtaining the degrees of BA (Law) and LLB at the University of Stellenbosch, he was appointed as a senior lecturer in private law at the University of Fort Hare in 1968. This was followed by an appointment as senior lecturer in private law at the University of the Western Cape. Judge Louw commenced practice at the Cape Bar in 1974 and was elected a member of the Cape Bar Council in 1979. He was granted silk on 11 August 1992. He was a member or chair-person of some ad hoc disciplinary committees appointed by the Cape Bar Council from time to time and held appointments as acting judge in 1993 and 1995. At the time of leaving the Cape Bar, he served as one of the two fee ombudsmen to mediate in fee disputes between members of the Bar and instructing attorneys. Judge Louw is married to Francisca Steyn van Rooyen and they have two children, a daughter and a son.

From: Stuart + Francis Queen's Counsel.